Moſcow, May 24, O. S.

ON Thurſday the 20th Inſtant Sir Cyril Wich, had a private Audience of the Czarina, in order to preſent his Credentials as Miniſter Plenipotentiary from his Britannick Majeſty, and was received with all poſſible Diſtinction.

From the Camp at Colegara, between Modena and the Panaro, June 6, N. S.

This Army, in the Opinion of the moſt experienced Officers, could not be encamped in a more advantageous Situation. The King of Sardinia's Troops have their Right at Spilimberto, near the Mountains, where the Panaro takes its Spring, and extends as far at St. Ambroſio, where they have their Left: At this laſt Place the Auſtrian Troops have their Right, and their Left at Navicello and Buonporto: The Country is thick planted with Trees, but what makes it of an eaſy Defence, and conſequently dangerous for the Enemy to attack us, is, that it is cut every where with deep Ditches and Trenches. St. Ambroſio is the Place where the ordinary Ferry to the Panaro, upon the main Road to Bologna, is placed. Here the King of Sardinia has thrown two Bridges over that River, and raiſed a Redoute at the Head of them on the other Side. Marſhal Traun has a Bridge built with Brick at Navicella, which is likewiſe intrenched on the other Side. All theſe Works at the Head of the Bridges above-mentioned, have been undertaken and finiſhed without the leaſt Diſturbance or Oppoſition from the Spaniards, who have not ſo much as appeared with the ſmalleſt Detachment to alarm the Grand Guard. This has confirm'd both Armies in the Contempt they have for the Spaniards, and makes them eager and impatient to come to an Action with them. In the mean while the Auſtrian Huſſars are continually harraſſing their Poſts with ſmall Detachments, and ſeldom return without Priſoners or ſome Booty of Horſes or Mules: They went ſome Days ago behind their Camp, as far as the Gates of Bologna, and took two Poſt Chaiſes going to the Spaniſh Army, with a Lieutenant Colonel, two Captains of Dragoons, and a Commiſſary, and brought them through By-Roads to the King of Sardinia's Quarters. M. de Montemar advanced on the 30th paſt from the Samoggia, where he was encamped, to the Borders of the Panaro, and not above two ſhort Miles from us; he placed his Right at Caſtel Franco, and his Left between San Ceſareo and Piumaggo. This Motion, as every other he has made, occaſioned a very conſiderable Deſertion, and in the next Morning, and the Day following, we had above 200 of their Men between Priſoners and Deſerters, who all agree, that it is the utmoſt, if one third Part comes this Way, it being more at Hand for them to get into the Mountains, or towards the Venetian State, and to make their Eſcape by the Rear of their Camp, where they cannot be ſo cloſely guarded by the Miquelets. What M. de Montemar has loſt of this Sort would make a ſmall Army. In nine Days 1170 odd deſerted and went through the Town of Parma; beſides there are many ſick in their Hoſpitals at Bologna and elſewhere, in ſo much that it is the general Opinion, their Army, at moſt, cannot exceed 22000 Men bearing Arms. Marſhal Traun has had another Reinforcement ſent him of 3600 Croatians, 400 of which are Horſe; Part of them is already arrived in their Camp, and the remaining Part, which is in March, will have joined their Army by the latter End of the Week.

Vienna, June 16. There is no News ſince the 9th Inſtant, from Bohemia, but that the purſuit of the French continued; That the Carriages on the Roads, pillaged by Peaſants and Huſſars, were ſo numerous as frequently to embarraſs the March of the regular Troops that followed; and that the Ways were filled with wounded, ſick, and half famiſhed Soldiers.

Breſlaw, June 20, N. S. The Earl of Hyndford, Miniſter Plenipotentiary from his Britannick Majeſty, having received by a Courier from Vienna the Queen of Hungary's Ratifications of the Preliminary Articles ſign'd here the 11th Inſtant, between her Majeſty and the King of Pruſſia, they were this Morning exchanged in due Form againſt thoſe of his Pruſſian Majeſty.

Dreſden, June 24, N. S. What we hear from Bohemia is, that the French Army remains at Prague, and had received moſt of the Recruits they expected. Prince Charles was the 18th at Pilſen, and march'd from thence the Day following for Rokitzau and Manth, with an Intention, as was believed, to proceed to Prague.
